

Week 5 “The Big One”

Monday July 19, 2010

That’s Totally Random!

Schedule: Special Activity

What to wear: Anything random, the more unusual the better.

What to expect: We don’t want to give away any surprises, but... Campers should expect to be surprised and entertained.

Tuesday July 20, 2010

Plaid Parade Day

Schedule: Crazy Time

What to wear: PLAID!!! As much as you can find.

What to expect: Sharing the love for Sloppy Joe’s favorite color: plaid. ☺

Wednesday July 21, 2010

Endless Outdoor Adventures

Schedule: Special Activity

What to wear: Lightweight clothes that may get messy, sunscreen and comfortable shoes.

What to expect: The adventure course is one of the most popular studios; campers will get a chance to partake in many different adventure-type activities, all at an age appropriate level.

Thursday July 22, 2010

Heroes Vs. Villains

Schedule: Crazy Time

What to wear: Your favorite hero or villain costume.

What to expect: An epic showdown between Camp heroes and villains.

Friday July 23, 2010

Mud Madness

Schedule: Festival

What to wear: Old clothes... VERY OLD, in fact, anything that could be thrown away immediately after. For boys, old swimsuits that do not have side pockets work well. Goggles are a good idea to bring, a change of clothes and a bag to place muddy clothes in. Parents, when picking up your child, you may wish to line your seats with towels or trash bags.

What to expect: A truly legendary camp day... Campers will have the opportunity to play in our classic, giant mud pit. There will also be a separate, smaller pit for the little ones. Campers may participate in mud style activities for those not getting muddy. A fire truck will assist with cleanup. ☺